PROMISING PRACTICE OVERVIEW

In spring of 2017 Petaluma Health Center determined the need for a searchable database for staff to access day-to-day processes. Petaluma Health Center developed and launched a Wiki site which includes information on health center processes from phone scripts to managing individual voicemail messages. The functionality of the PHC Wiki page has heavily evolved over the past 6 months with staff frequently utilizing and customizing pages daily. The utilization of the PHC wiki page reassures Petaluma Health Center managers that PHC staff understand and are in agreement on a variety of health center processes (does not include policies and procedures).

AIM

Develop an easily accessible, dynamic and searchable database which PHC staff members can use to learn about day-to-day processes. The aim is to get the information out of people's heads and documented in a transparent way.

MEASURES

Utilization for the Wiki is measured daily to track how many staff members view each page. Since the launch in April 2017, PHC has developed over 1600 reference and educational articles.

ACTIONS TAKEN

- Staff member Kim Keller assessed all processes and procedures to determine what is most essential for staff to access quickly and on-demand. Using free software called MediaWiki, Kim Keller along with PHC's IT director developed a template and code in PHP in a windows server environment.
- Upon launch, the organization wanted to ensure that PHC staff had access and editing capabilities.
- PHC trained some of their staff on coding in Wiki markup language, starting with the call center and IT staff.
- Since staff are able to edit the information directly, PHC designated each department manager to regularly review edits made on their individual department pages.
- In addition PHC designated a copy editor to monitor changes on a weekly basis to ensure all changes align with PHC's policies and procedures. At the bottom of each Wiki page, it states the last time it was modified and the recent changes section tracks all page versions and edits.

WORKFLOW

RESULTS TO DATE

Utilization data has shown very successful adoption since the launch:

- More than 1600 pages
- Over 6,910 edits
- Over 30,961 views

The PHC Wiki article database has increased health center staff competencies around Internet technology.

LESSONS LEARNED

- Leadership buy-in is essential for successful management of the Wiki pages.
- A collaborative and curious staff is necessary for article cultivation.
- Success requires tech savvy and experienced champions to invest a lot of time to train the staff and build/maintain the site.
