

Food Program Resources

Marin County

Women, Infants, & Children Program (WIC)

WIC provides nutrition education, access to healthy food, breastfeeding support, and connections to other necessary resources for low-income pregnant people, mothers who had a recent birth, and families with children up to 5 years of age. Visit the Marin County WIC page listed to the left to learn more.

Ritter Center

Ritter Center operates the largest food pantry in Marin County, ensuring individuals and families have access to food. Ritter Center has food pantries and seasonal programs throughout the year. Visit the Ritter Center page for more information.

San Francisco - Marin Food Bank

San Francisco—Marin County Food Bank addresses hunger head-on, from its food pantry network and home-delivered groceries to CalFresh (Food Stamp) enrollment. For more information regarding services and programs, please visit www.sfmfoodbank.org.

Food Distribution Sites

There are numerous food pantries across Marin County that provide free food and groceries to families and individuals who need the support. Although some pantries have a registration system, their services are free and for all who need it. To access a full list of pantries in your area, visit the San Francisco and Marin distribution site tool. Scan the QR code to the right to open the tool.
